

Hell and After: Four Early English-Language Poets of Australia

By Francis MacNamara, Mary Gilmore, Lesbia Harford, Les Murray

Carcanet Press Ltd. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Hell and After: Four Early English-Language Poets of Australia, Francis MacNamara, Mary Gilmore, Lesbia Harford, Les Murray, The first metropolis to be depicted in Australian literature was Hell: before cities existed in Australia, Francis McNamara, the convict poet, described the infernal one populated by those who tormented him and his fellow prisoners. Sentenced in 1832 to seven years' transportation to Australia for stealing a plaid, he survived the brutality of the penal system: his witty, rebellious poems laid the foundations for a new Australian poetry. Les Murray's anthology of poets from the early years of European settlement in Australia reaches back in time from his fivefathers, which collected significant voices from the early twentieth century (Kenneth Slessor, Roland Robinson, David Campbell, James McAuley, Francis Webb). "Hell and After" contains extended selections from the work of four writers. Francis McNamara (1811-1880) is the only poet whose work has survived from the convict era. Mary Gilmore (1865-1962) was born to a pioneering life in the bush; she became a social reformer and renowned figure in the Australian Labor Party, and her poems are much loved by Australians for their vivid evocations of colonial...

DOWNLOAD PDF

READ ONLINE

[6.93 MB]

Reviews

This is basically the finest publication i actually have go through till now. We have read and i also am confident that i am going to likely to read through again once more in the foreseeable future. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

-- Prof. Adell Lubowitz

A fresh e-book with a brand new point of view. It really is packed with knowledge and wisdom Its been designed in an exceedingly simple way and is particularly simply following i finished reading this publication through which actually modified me, alter the way i really believe.

-- Bernhard Russel