A kingfisher darted out of the wood, dipped her wings in the water, and flew back into the thick foliage. That was a wild little fairy, said he, whom a great giant holds prisoner in a hollow trunk. She escaped for a moment, but has flown back, because she was afraid he would seek for her. Then he saw a wild duck sitting in the most serene manner under the arched roots of an old stump, half fallen into the water, looking like a little hermit in a cave. When he approached, the duck scuttled along the water, dived down, reappeared at some distance, and swam out of sight round a bend in the river. Now he heard a chirping sound, like the cry of a bird, only sharper and...
