The plan of this book - Part II. of the First Reader - is somewhat similar to that of Part I. In Part I., the lessons are based on the short sounds of the vowels, with single consonant sounds preceding and following them. With the single consonants were taken the apparent consonant digraphs ll, ch, etc., which are, in reality, single consonants, since they represent but one consonant power. In phonic drill, the teacher should constantly use the blackboard. Having, for instance, exemplified the use of two initial or final consonants with a digraph, he should write down other digraphs, which the pupils should pronounce, and by prefixing or affixing, as the case may require, the sound of the two consonants to them, form new words. Facility on the part of his pupils...
