Not illustrated. 1881 Excerpt: . . . being checked in Devon and Cornwall many fled from those parts to Bridgewater, and there endeavoured to renew the struggle, but found their efforts speedily stopped. Enquiries seem to have been made, perhaps privately, as to this unyversall dearthe of vytells and a report is preserved naming three chief causes. 1st. The lack of breading and rearyng of cattell and poultre ware; for it is not possible to have that good cheape, that is not. Secondly, Regrating; when most part of vytells be gathered into few mens hands, who may defer to sell but when they see the most profit. Thirdly, the Kynges provisions; when vytels is taken from the poore people that be the breading, against their will, and have neither ready money for their wares nor yet so much as it is worth. Which discourageth the people to breading and causeth the prices of all things, because there is not plenty of them, to be increased, f J To remedy this excessyve prycy, directions were issued to the Justices, to take means to have the markets well supplied. They were to view and trie out, what quantity and sorts of grain very person had, and to order all that could be spared to be sent to market by weekly portions, under the heavy penalty of 10, or three months imprisonment. The names of all farmers, with the quantities expected weekly from each, were to be returned to the clerk of every market,...
